In a typical application for a surgical catheter, it is necessary to place a catheter into a human for various medical purposes. For example, a catheter may be used to deliver a therapeutic agent for treating a disease in a human tissue. More specifically, a catheter may be used for delivering a chemotherapeutic agent to a tumor mass located in a human tissue. Also, a catheter may be used for drug delivery to treat a disease in a human tissue. The drug may be delivered by the catheter directly into the tissue or the drug may be delivered via the bloodstream or lymphatic system to the tissue. Other uses for surgical catheters include delivering a therapeutic agent to an injury, delivering a diagnostic agent, and delivering a therapeutic agent to a surgical site. A catheter is a tube for the passage of fluids or gases, which may be easily inserted through the skin or into a body cavity. A typical catheter is inserted into a patient's vein through the use of a hollow needle (i.e., an introducer needle). When the catheter has been inserted, the clinician then attaches the catheter to the needle hub, usually by a threaded connection. The introducer needle is removed from the patient's vein, and the catheter is then attached to an administration set which delivers fluids to the patient, or to a device that removes fluids from the patient. Catheters may be used for hemodialysis, for percutaneous transluminal angioplasty (PTA) or for coronary arteriography and angioplasty. In addition, catheters are also used for drug delivery and vena cava access.

I have a Filter which needs to "wrap" a bunch of requests in new ones, so they are all sent to the same Servlet. The usual way to do this is with a ServletRequestWrapper. That works great. My problem is that I need this Filter to get a list of them, so that it can modify them. I know that the ServletRequestWrapper has a List of them (or at least one of the wrapper objects does) when 1cdb36666d
