If you're the kind of person who likes surprises, there's a new storefront on Amazon that may be up your alley. Amazon.com has a new flagship drop-box store where customers can buy a variety of gift ideas for friends, family and co-workers all at once. The new "One Click Shop" is located in the product section of Amazon's main website. You can shop by category, location, occasion, or browse a simple, long list of options. The idea is that you can add the products to your cart and then click a button that says "Send Now." Amazon will charge your credit card and get it all shipped to your address. Amazon shoppers can also pay with their Amazon Echo or Alexa, which is a built-in voice-activated assistant that can read voice inputs and answer questions. Another option is paying with a link on your mobile phone or tablet. The site works exactly like any other Amazon.com "One Click Shop" product. The service is simple, but some Amazon users are complaining about there being no way to sort the products. We've been told that you can sort the products into the different categories, but it's not obvious. Many of the products are very short-term and are not available in the real world yet. Some examples include: For the Beer Lovers Smart tea kettle which has a built-in digital display. It also steams, froths, and cleans For the Coffee Lovers The digital espresso machine Mazzer Marsala For the Cooks The Pomegranate Chef's Knife which has a chip-resistant stainless steel For the

If the named defendant is a governmental unit, service must be made on the director and, for a plaintiff seeking to appeal from an order of dismissal or nonsuit, no affidavit of inability to pay is required. Tex.R.App.P. 60. [5] The Texas Supreme Court has stated that the purpose of these savings provisions is to afford a litigant a reasonable opportunity to remedy a defective service of process, e.g., to amend the defective service, see Bass v. Texas Dept. of Corrections, 869 S.W.2d at 621 n. 8, and, in the interest of justice, to enable an appeal to proceed where the necessary steps to perfect an appeal have not been taken within the periods specified in the rules. See TEX. R.APP.P. 25.1(c); see also Choate v. San Antonio Express News, Inc., 669 S.W.2d 695, 697 (Tex.App. □ San Antonio 1984), rev'd on other grounds, 668 S.W.2d 321 (Tex.1984). [6] In the past, courts of appeals were required to dismiss for want of jurisdiction after determining that a motion for extension of time to file a notice of appeal had not been properly filed. See former Tex.R.App.P. 58(a)(1), 59(b). The rules have since been amended to allow the court to suspend Rule 458. See TEX. R.APP.P. 2, 25.2, 25.3, 25.4. Who is Beyonce more like? Rogen or Rock? Granular cell tumors of the esophagus: a rare and underrecognized pathologic diagnosis. Granular cell tumors (GCTs) of the esophagus are a rare diagnosis and have previously been described in the literature in a limited number of case reports and case series. A retrospective chart review of the last 8 years was performed in order to identify esophageal GCTs, and the clinical and pathologic features of the subjects were reviewed. Eleven patients (six male and five female) were identified, with a mean age at presentation of 55.8 years (range, 24-90 years). The tumors were present in the lower third of the esophagus in nine of the 11 patients (82%) and were pedunculated in all 11 patients (100%). The median size was 1.5 cm (range, 0.5-2.5 cm). Grossly, the tumors were fleshy and multilobulated, with areas of hemorrhage. Microscopically, the tumors demonstrated areas of densely packed closely packed spindle cells, often with a storiform arrangement, interspersed with mature adipose tissue and a myxoid background. The spindle cells were predominantly positive for S100 and vimentin and negative for smooth muscle actin and cytokeratin, immunohistochemically. In total, 8 (73%) of 11 patients underwent surgical resection of the tumor, and all patients were alive at the time of last follow-up. Esophageal GCTs are unusual tumors that are almost always benign, but can grow larger than 2 cm in size. In cases of esophageal GCTs, the primary care provider should consider an esophageal GCT in the differential diagnosis, particularly when pedunculated lesions are present. The International Cricket Council's (ICC) postponement of the rest of the Test series in England between England and South Africa was the reason for me to get up early on Thursday and reach the ICC chamber in Dubai to witness the few faces that had been present for the meeting. It looked like a hurried and not well thought meeting. There was no press presence. 'There is no dispute between the boards that the ECB will pay
